83-85 soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The Amazon is the largest river in the world. It carries about a quarter of the world's running water and is the second longest after the Nile. Much of it is brown, brackish, piranha-infested and bitterly cold. Ranging from narrow tributaries and raging rapids to stretches of prodigious width and calm, the river's banks can take half a day to reach. In parts, it can drop up to 40 metres in less than a kilometre. Furthermore, it runs through deep canyons and steep gorges that have been carved out by its turbulent waters.

83. We learn from the passage that, though the Amazon has the largest volume of water of any river in the world, ____.

- A) it is not the longest
- B) it is in no parts particularly wide
- C) there is very little topographical variety in its course
- D) it is seldom used for the transportation of goods
- E) it is in most parts congested with mud and slime, hence slow-moving

84. It is pointed out in the passage that the waters of the Amazon ____.

- A) shelter many species of exotic fish
- B) are in parts muddy and not fresh
- C) form a chain of spectacular waterfalls
- D) are not suitable for the survival of piranha
- E) flow calmly throughout its course

85. The passage largely deals with ____.

- A) the differences and the similarities between the Amazon and the Nile
- B) the varying problems of navigation along the Amazon
- C) the geological formation of the course of the Amazon
- D) the number and the size of the Amazon's many tributaries
- E) The size of the Amazon and its topographical and aquatic features

86-88 soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The great window-dresser Gene Moore seems to have been self-taught. As a young man his main idea was to get away from Birmingham, Alabama, then a town of steel and pollution. It was, he said, the wrong place to be born in for anyone with dreams. He dreamt of being a concert pianist and then of being a painter. But he decided that he did not play very well, and presently gave up painting. In New York in the 1930s he got various casual jobs. One was with a store that decided he had flair and put him in its display department, and that was the start of his career. He worked for a number of shops promoting their wares, and built a reputation for innovative ideas.

86. One understands from the passage that it took Gene Moore very many years to ____.

- A) find out what he was really good at
- B) return to his native town of Birmingham, Alabama
- C) realise that he hated living in an industrial city
- D) accept the fact that he wasn't a gifted artist
- E) get a department store of his own in New York

87. It is suggested in the passage that Gene Moore spent his early years ____.

- A) preparing for the career of his choice which was window-dressing
- B) in New York where he made his dreams come true
- C) in an environment that he felt was hostile to his creative development
- D) in Alabama where he got his professional training
- E) painting industrial landscapes in Alabama

88. It is clear from the passage that Gene Moore became a window-dresser ____.

- A) in order to make a name for himself in New York's fashion circles
- B) more by accident than by design
- C) only after he had established himself as a musician and a painter
- D) almost as soon as he arrived in New York
- E) even though he lacked any form of creative talent as his employers knew well

Pollution is no respecter of national boundaries today. But environmental scientists can still be surprised by the distances that large quantities of industrial pollutants can sometimes be carried by winds. For instance, a group of chemists at the University of Washington in Seattle have been involved in a case study of such pollutants which reached the West Coast of America all the way from Asia. They are keen to understand how such an event could take place and to what extent it could have been forecast. In fact, back in March 1997, pollutants such as carbon-monoxide from Asia had been spotted as far across the Pacific Ocean as Hawaii. Thus, it seems increasingly likely that the West Coast of America is particularly exposed to pollution from Asia.

89. It is suggested in the passage that industrial pollution in our world today ____ .

- A) is largely concentrated in the Pacific Ocean
- B) is gradually being brought under full control
- C) has been the main concern of scientists from the University of Washington
- D) can be predicted and the necessary measures taken
- E) can travel amazing distances

90. It is pointed out in the passage that one of the issues the chemists from the University of Washington are seriously concerned with ____ .

- A) is how to clean up the Pacific Ocean and save it from industrial pollutants
- B) is whether it may be possible to foretell the movements of pollutants from Asia
- C) is whether it might be possible to change the course of industrial pollutants along the West Coast
- D) has been the measurement of carbon monoxide levels around Hawaii
- E) should be the prevention of the emission of pollutants along the West Coast of America

91. One can conclude from the passage that Asian industry appears to ____ .

- A) be in desperate need of reconstruction and relocation
- B) be doing all it can to prevent environmental pollution
- C) be emitting more carbon-monoxide than any other industrial pollutant
- D) pose a serious environmental threat to the West Coast of America
- E) be a major competitor for the American industrial enterprises along the West Coast

92-94 soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Most poetry anthologies are assembled by poets. This is not necessarily a good thing. They are in fact assembled for many different reasons. Some resemble star charts, trying to define the scope of the new and show us what direction poetry is heading. Others turn their gaze on the past, seeking to define poetries of earlier centuries or to identify influential currents of thinking and feeling. Yet other anthologies strive to present enduring images of the beautiful for the reader's pleasure, as if poems were bunches of flowers.

92. From the passage we understand that the writer ____ .

- A) considers the main role of poetry anthologies to be the cultivation of a sense of beauty
- B) is in favour of poets' compilation of poetry anthologies
- C) is rather critical of the way that most poetry anthologies are compiled
- D) is himself compiling an anthology of modern poetry
- E) seems to favour anthologies that give priority to the poetry of the past

93. According to the passage, a major concern of some poetry anthologies is to ____ .

- A) introduce readers to the works of poets who have generally been overlooked
- B) emphasise the vital importance of poetry in our everyday life
- C) help people to understand and appreciate the art of the past
- D) offer guidance to aspiring young poets
- E) illustrate certain major intellectual and literary movements of the past

94. The writer compares some anthologies of modern poetry to "star charts" because ____ .

- A) they attempt to foresee forthcoming trends in poetry
- B) he is himself a representative of this type of poetry
- C) his own predictions have rarely been accurate
- D) he doesn't believe the future can be interpreted by reference to the past
- E) they provide a comprehensive perspective of various poetical movements

95-97 soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Everybody needs vitamins and minerals to remain healthy. The questions are, which ones, how much and when? And the answer is surprisingly simple: take XXX. Actually, the Department of Health has recognised 18 essential vitamins and mineral that we need on a daily basis. The daily amount required of these vitamins and minerals is termed the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA). XXX meet this requirement and more. As a new vitamin complex, it contains these 18 essential vitamins and minerals, plus a total of no less than 31 other micro-nutrients, including the complete antioxidant group and folic acid. There is no more complete a multimineral-multivitamin on the market. So, because you don't always eat as you should, it makes sense to take XXX.

95. One essential point made in the passage is that ____.

- A) vitamins and minerals must always be taken in conjunction with other micro-nutrients
- B) the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamins and minerals is actually not adequate
- C) the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamins and minerals should not be exceeded by a supplementary intake of other nutrients
- D) micro-nutrients, such as folic acid, are an adequate substitute for the 18 basic vitamins and minerals
- E) a daily intake of vitamins and minerals is vital for good health

96. In the passage it is claimed that XXX ____.

- A) is the easiest way of getting an adequate supply of vitamins and other micro-nutrients daily
- B) has been strongly recommended by the Department of Health
- C) is the only multimineral-multivitamin complex currently on sale
- D) is particularly effective if it is taken after meals
- E) is an aid to better eating habits

97. It is clear from the passage that, in taking vitamins and minerals, the basic problem one faces is to ____.

- A) decide the quantity required in any given situation
- B) keep the correct balance between the two
- C) avoid an excessive intake of the anti-oxidant group
- D) determine the kind and the amount to be taken daily
- E) follow a strict diet that includes them all

98-100 soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

In Japan, there is a government investment and loan programme, known as zaito. Unlike normal government spending, zaito relies not on tax revenues but on people's savings. These are drawn from the publicly-owned postal-savings system, which by law must place all deposits with zaito, and from the postal life-insurance schemes and various pension funds. The finance ministry, which has run zaito for more than 100 years, then lends the money out. During the second World War, zaito financed Japan's military build-up. Afterwards, it paid for reconstruction and helped to channel low-cost funds into such strategic industries as steel and car-making. More recently, it has turned to "social" investments, such as infrastructure projects and housing.

98. According to the writer, the most distinctive feature of zaito is that ____.

- A) it has continued to be in use for longer than was originally envisaged
- B) its revenues are invariably directed towards military rearmament
- C) it provides the government with a revenue raised not through taxation but by way of personnel savings
- D) it does not come under the mandate of the ministry of finance
- E) it has aroused a great deal of resentment among Japanese savers

99. It is pointed out in the passage that the resources of zaito were once used to ____.

- A) strengthen the financial position of pension funds in the country
- B) provide houses for the care of the elderly in Japan
- C) improve the efficiency and performance of the Japanese postal-services
- D) revive Japan's industrial potential
- E) provide a supplementary source of income for the needs of the ministry of finance

100. One can easily conclude from the passage that the implementation of zaito has ____.

- A) changed over the years in accordance with the pressing needs of the country
- B) always been strictly confined to housing projects
- C) greatly increased the operational capacity of the Japanese army today
- D) always had in adverse impact upon the saving habits of the Japanese people
- E) given a boost to the governments insurance and pension policies
